COVER:

DR. ANTHONY JENKINS (English) has doubts over that flip-top skull. It was only a stand-in, though, on loan from the biology department for Victoria Fair rehearsals. Dr. Jenkins, playing the Gravedigger in Hamlet, turned up a more convincing cranium when the season began last Friday night.

Anyone seeking contact with a few administrative departments will have to beat a path to their new door until the telephone company can return to its old numbers game. In semi-seclusion for the moment are the mail room, administrative services, the personnel office, and women's activities and housing. They're all in Hut "L", formerly the cafeteria. The switchboard offers messenger service.

Another move brings PROFESSOR R. R. JEFFELS from Craigdarroch College to Hut "M" to take over his new duties as director of admissions. Colleagues assigned to the admissions office are NELS GRANEWALL, financial aid officer, and admissions officer DAPHNE OSBORN. The office will be responsible for new admissions to the University and for awards and financial aid.

R. A. SHIMMIN (registrar's office) has been designated "administrative registrar", effective July 1. He will be responsible for such office functions as computer records and systems design, scheduling, and registration procedures.

DEAN J. L. CLIMENHAGA, newly appointed dean of arts and science, has also become a member of the board of directors of WESTAR -- a consortium of universities planning to save the Mount Kobau telescope project. WESTAR will be seeking funds to complete development and installation of the 157-inch telescope, abandoned by the federal government.

For deep theory any summer evening, try issuing a challenge to the Psychos. This dynamic group will take on all comers in the group dynamics of baseball. Arrangements should be made through DR. PAM DUNCAN (psychology), fixture fixer, at local 239.

DR. H. M. SULLIVAN (physics) recently attended the Congress of the Canadian Association of Physicists in Waterloo, Ont., where he presented a joint paper with a colleague from the University of Saskatchewan. Their material compared upper-air temperatures and twilight sodium intensities at Saskatoon and Victoria.

Dr. Sho Ohnuma of Yale University is visiting the physics department for the summer and assisting in design work for the TRIUMF project. TRIUMF, a joint venture of four universities, is developing a nuclear accelerator on the West Coast as a major research tool. One of many areas to be explored is the use of negative pions in medical therapy. This is the subject of a conference now under way at Berkeley, attended by DR. D. E. LOBB.

DR. J. BEATTIE MacLEAN (Germanic languages and literature) was elected vice-president of the Canadian Association of University Teachers of German at its June convention in Toronto. Dr. MacLean was also re-appointed as chairman of the association's national committee on German instruction in public schools.

A new edition of United Kingdom Postgraduate Awards has been forwarded to the library. This standard guide, now covering the years 1969-71, is published by the Association of Commonwealth Universities. It is intended mainly for overseas students and their advisors, but also gives details on awards for university teachers and senior research workers.

Victoria Fair, the city's new summer festival of the arts, is now in full swing. A three-week round of concerts and recitals has reached its mid point, and two new productions have just opened at the McPherson Playhouse.

A recital on campus this Thursday will include the world premiere of a piano trio by Robert Turner, commissioned for the Fair by the Canada Council. Also on the program will be the premiere of a work for solo clarinet composed and performed by LESLIE THIMMIG, who has just joined the music department.

On Friday, the students of this summer's workshop in chamber music will present a special concert. Artists at other concerts to July 25 will present a wide range of works for voice, solo instrument, and ensemble.

In theatre, Hamlet and The Merchant of Venice will continue throughout July and August, with Tartuffe joining the repertory season on August 5.

DEAN PETER GARVIE (fine arts) sees Victoria Fair as "creative interaction between University and community to their common good", and hopes that the Fair's offerings will become an annual feature of Victoria's pleasant summer scene.

Tickets are still available for most of the events listed on the other side of the Newsletter. For musical events and general details, call Victoria Fair at 477-4821. Theatre tickets are at the McPherson box-office (386-6121).
